

connecting merchants to the payment ecosystem

Supporting your business growth and internationalization

In order for a Payment Service Provider (PSP) to start processing transactions for a merchant, a technical connection to an acquirer has to be made.

Worldline has developed a state-of-the-art gateway enabling you to streamline the integration between you and your acquirer. Our gateway allows you to forward payment data from your merchants to the Central West-European acquiring backbone. From there, it will reach issuers before the information returns to you and your merchants.
